Company Overview

Samantab Trading Company has entered the global markets to produce, supply and export silk cocoons, silk threads and silk fabrics. Owing large mulberry farms, modified mulberry seedlings farms, as well as various workshops for silkworm eggs, this company can produce high quality raw materials and uses the latest technology and up-to-date equipment in order to produce the best silk products in the globe and export them to local and global markets. Customer satisfaction has always been the ultimate goal of this company and we will always pursue this important goal by providing first-class products and after-sales services.

Business description

The silk cocoon market is approaching a maximum demand therefore, a very high potential for production and trade in this field can be witnessed. Cocoon is the main product for the production of raw silk and is one of the main materials in textile industry. The yarn obtained from silk cocoons is demanded by various industries such as textiles, carpet weaving, clothing, etc.; Therefore, its sales market is booming. Asia accounts for the largest volume of silk production and exports, about 90% of the world production. The major manufacturers of silk are China and Japan who play an important role in determining the the price of silk and its products. Given the current state of silk production, this is an opportunity for developing countries to easily expand their weaving industry. The long history of the Middle East in producing silkworm eggs has led to the production of the best type of yarn in the region. It has also met the needs of foreign markets and has created many jobs.

Silk yarn as a delicate, strong, durable and polished fiber has a history dating back to human civilization and has been the raw material for the production of the best silk fabrics. Historically, in all civilized countries, it has been certain that the most beautiful and valuable clothing has always been made of silk fabrics. It was around 2700 BC that man first did silk weaving in China. The main producers and consumers of silk yarn are China, Korea, Japan, Iran, India, France and Italy.
